

Experience

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |                                                            |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------|
| AI Software EngineerAccenture Netherlands                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       | October 2021 – PresentAmsterdam (Netherlands)   |
| Promoted twice while growing into AI-focused engineering roles spanning LLM platforms, agentic systems , and enterprise AI products.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |                                                            |
| <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>German Industrial Machinery (2026 – Present): Built Next.js-based agentic systems using LLMs, RAG, and enterprise integrations.</li><li>US Medtech (2023 – 2025): Built an internal AI chatbot platform used daily by 50,000+ employees, using Azure OpenAI and AWS Bedrock with enterprise workflows, context-aware agents, and no-code tools for citizen developers.</li><li>Large Dutch Bank (2021 – 2023): Helped replace a 20+ year legacy user account platform with Kotlin, Spring, AngularJS, Azure SQL, and Cosmos DB, building backend services serving 1,000+ QPS with &gt;99.9% availability and single-digit millisecond API latency.</li></ul> |                                                            |
| Full-stack Software EngineerNexoTech                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            | April 2018 – Dec. 2019Mataró, Barcelona (Spain) |
| <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>Led project about designing and building of a full-stack web application build in ReactJS and Java Spring for counting the amount of people in a building with IoT and Deep Learning implementations.</li><li>Implemented a Machine Learning model with Keras and Python that recognizes gender and age. Used AWS Rekognition in production for better speed and accuracy.</li></ul>                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |                                                            |

Education

|                                                                                                                                   |                                                  |
|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--------------------------------------------------|
| M.Sc. in Computer ScienceTrinity College Dublin                                                                        | Sep. 2020 – Oct. 2021Dublin, Ireland  |
| <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>Specialized in AR/VR, Machine Learning, and Computer Graphics.</li></ul>      |                                                  |
| Bachelor's in Computer Engineering and Information SystemsUniversitat Pompeu Fabra                                     | Sep. 2016 – Dec. 2019Barcelona, Spain |
| <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>Studied a semester abroad at Ajou University in Suwon, South Korea.</li></ul> |                                                  |

Projects

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |  |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--|
| Highlighted projects are listed below; more web, mobile, and open-source work can be found at: github.com/janjs .                                                                                                                                                                                          |  |
| <ul style="list-style-type: none"><li>Chordwise — AI-powered chord progression generator for musicians, built with Next.js, OpenAI API, and Convex.</li><li>Scandrop MCP — MCP server that helps LLMs reason about and interact with 3D spatial environments, built with Python, TypeScript, and 3D processing pipelines.</li></ul> |  |

Skills

|                               |                                                                                                                                                          |
|-------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Languages              | TypeScript/JavaScript · Python · Java · Kotlin · Swift                                                                                            |
| Frameworks             | Next.js · React · Node.js · Spring · Angular · ThreeJS · React Native · iOS · ARKit/ARCore · Strudel                                              |
| ML &amp; Spatial       | PyTorch · AWS Rekognition · Computer Vision · 3D Processing · Augmented Reality                                                                          |
| Cloud, Data &amp; APIs | Azure · SQL (PostgreSQL) · NoSQL (CosmosDB and MongoDB) · Mapping APIs · Enterprise Integrations                                                  |
| Developer Tools        | Git · Cursor · Claude Code · OpenAI Codex · VS Code · IntelliJ · Xcode · Azure DevOps · Convex                                                           |
| AI &amp; Agentic       | AI Agents · RAG · Model Context Protocol · Prompt Engineering · Azure AI Foundry · OpenAI API · AWS Bedrock · Hugging Face · Replicate · Roboflow |
| Spoken Languages       | English (C1, Cambridge Advanced) · Spanish (Native) · Catalan (Native) · Dutch (Beginner)                                                                |